Counsel

I have a dentist appointment this morning and then a mediation - so I am not in a position to send something more formal. That said, let me be clear. The Final Award sets forth a clear path for election of a new manager. That path does not provide that Ammon, Matt or anyone else defaults to manager. As far as I am concerned, until a manager is in place as set forth in the Final Award, the president of Legally Mine will be responsible for day to day decisions. The Final Award does not contemplate entry of additional orders. None of the parties to the arbitration should take any actions to change status quo pending appointment of a new manager pursuant to the Final Award.

In my view, I retain jurisdiction over this matter until the attorney fees and costs are resolved - then my jurisdiction ends. If conduct occurs before that time that justifies a reconsideration of any aspect of the Final Award, that can be addressed. I hope that is not the case.

Mark,

In light of today's ruling and the sealed nature of this proceeding, we submit the following proposed order for your review and signature to allow Claimants to present to the banks. Please recall that Dan withdrew over $300,000 from the Legally Mine account when he became aware of the TRO last October. As indicated by Lindsey's attached text message sent at 7:29 PM tonight, he believes he is now in charge because at Legally Mine because Legally Mine has no manager. Given that the Operating Agreement and this Tribunal's Final Award states that only a member can be a manager, Dan's vote should be an easy decision between Ammon or Matt as the new managing member. We request his vote to be completed tomorrow so as to ensure things can transition smoothly.
